First Colony Church of Christ Opens New 24,000-SF Worship Center

Houston-based Turner Partners Architecture LP and general contractor Fretz Construction of Houston completed construction of the First Colony Church of Christ in Sugar Land.

The project encompasses a new 24,000-sq-ft worship center facility that seats 1,200 persons. It is linked to the existing campus through an expansive gathering hall. A 145-ft-tall bell tower integrated into the new structure reaches skyward and serves as a sign on U.S. 59. To improve flow and circulation within, the new facilities were made accessible to existing ones including multi-purpose, choir rehearsal, education, fellowship, and recreation spaces.

The design employs the latest technology with video projection and sound systems for contemporary worship services. >>
